Hi Folks!

The Tilted Steeple Coffee House's third season continues this month with a slateful of talent. We hope you can join us!

CARIBOU STEW is a Folk/Americana band from Montreal. Since forming in 2013, Jared Otter (lead vocals) and Benjamin Vallée (instrumentation/harmony vocals) have been crossing all subgenres under the umbrella of Americana, exploring and discovering along the way. After playing on the Emerging Artists Stage at Montreal's Folk Festival on the Canal in 2016, they decided to head into the studio and record their debut EP and release it in January 2017. Mixing Folk, Bluegrass, Alt-Country, and their awkward adolescent charm, they're bound to catch your ear from the moment they start playing. This just in: Caribou Stew is now a 6-member band, and the whole ensemble is coming out to perform at TSCH!

We are happy to welcome back WIDOW YOKUM, the solo venture of Scott Veinotte, a long time singer-songwriter and guitarist with the roots-based, driving band Furious Gord. Our audience might know Scott as the father of the three young members of local group Sons of Gord. Widow Yokum has a long experience to draw upon, having entertained for the past 20+ years with bands Gunther & Quinn, HardCore Troubadour, Beaver and Kingpin. You are sure to enjoy Widow Yokum's powerful voice, dynamic acoustic guitar playing style and diverse music offerings. Visit Scott on Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/furiousgord>.

Born in Lachute, Quebec, from a French Canadian mother and a Palestinian father, GUILLAUME JABBOUR is the recipient of the 2017 Stingray French Music Award. Guillaume fronts original music band Jabbour (Bill Collier, Carl Rufh) and provides guitar and vocal accompaniment in other musical projects, such as Montreal Cajun band and Les Flâneurs (Harlan Johnson, Bill Gossage). He credits his bi-ethnic childhood home for the development of his musical tastes and songwriting abilities. Playing solo, Guillaume pulls from his extensive repertoire, paying homage to songwriters such as David Wilcox, Paul McCartney, Félix Leclerc and other greats, and from his own material, which he writes English and French. More at www.jabbourband.com.

And as usual, Tilted Steeple Coffee House organizer and host Isabelle Delage will be joined by her PLAIN FOLK bandmates Mick Perreux and Val Teodori to offer a few tunes from their repertoire. Isabelle is currently working on her second solo album, due for release in March 2018.
