Hi Folks!

It's a mainly-Montreal contingent of artists coming out to celebrate the Tilted Steeple's final show of the 2017-2018 season. Hope you can join us!

MARGO ELLIS has been playing guitar since she was 10 years old, starting with a few lessons with the Old Town School of Folk Music in Chicago. She began playing in coffee houses and festivals until moving to Quebec 20 years ago. As a singer-songwriter, her style involves intricate guitar work backing a strong alto voice. She leans toward contemporary folk with occasional forays into traditional music and country, and loves instrumental work, particularly in alternate guitar tunings. Most recently part of the trio The Greater Goods, known to the Side Door Coffee House's amazing audience, she can be found playing around Montreal in various venues.

We are pleased to welcome IAN HANCHET for a second appearance at the Tilted Steeple Coffee House. Ian is a graduate of the Jazz program at Concordia University and the Music education program at McGill University and is currently teaching Music with the English Montreal School Board. New Life is Ian's third CD release and offers totally original songs in two rather disparate but complementary styles. Nine of the 15 original compositions feature the alto saxophone of Dave Turner adding to the trio of Ian on guitar and vocals, Adrian Vedady on upright bass and Sergio Barrenechea on Latin percussion and Congas. The other songs are coffee house type music a la Bruce Cockburn/ Bob Dylan/ Neil Young/ Jesse Winchester. Ian's solo act includes his originals and choice standards and great songs by his favourite artists. A singer-songwriter from Montreal by way of Kingston, ON, for the past nine years ZOË ROBERTSON has performed her songs from Halifax, NS to North Bay, ON, with many stops along the way. Her style is informed by an eclectic musical background, and a love of the songwriting greats – Leonard Cohen, Joni Mitchell, Townes Van Zandt and Tom Waits. Until 2015, her songs were the vehicle for the alt-folk band Zoë & the Lost Boys, who released two albums – Joints (Muscles, Seams) in 2011 and Love Lives Here in 2013. Now she's fresh off the release of her first volume of solo material, The Quiet Years. With a sparser sound and a darker aesthetic, but the same themes of beauty, landscape, time and love and death, the album is short, profound and unflinchingly honest. Bonus! Since Zoë will be travelling with a couple of musician friends, we will give them a little stage time. Visit Zoë's website at songsbyzoe.com and Astheur at www.astheur.com.

In the course of their collaboration for the launch events surrounding the release of Isabelle's CD Songs from My Little Couch, ISABELLE DELAGE and SAM MOSS discovered that their voices and styles are a pretty good match, so they thought they would work on a few numbers to try out on our audience this month. Isabelle's website is at www.isabelledelage.ca.
